

The Krug Room

Following a complete refurbishment and redesign, The Krug Room at The Dorchester reopened on 1st October 2009.

The Krug Room is without doubt one of the most exciting dining rooms in London. Located within the hotel's master kitchens, it is the original 'chef's table' and was first opened in the 1940's. Recently redesigned, the space pays homage to the heritage, elegance and subtlety that is the underlying thread of both Krug's and The Dorchester's ethos.

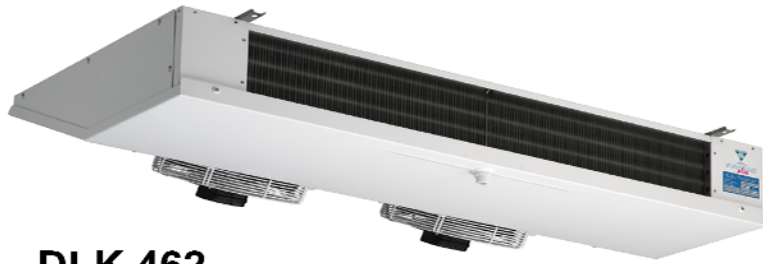

Krug Room at The Dorchester - The Dorchester in London, United Kingdom

The Krug Room can seat up to twelve guests on deep-red leather chairs around a specially commissioned glass table while they enjoy a menu designed specially for them by the hotel's Executive Chef, Henry Brosi. Whether it be a 3-course lunch or a 10-course degustation dinner, The Dorchester will also select wines to match including champagnes from the world renowned champagne house, Krug with some unique vintages available upon request.

Krug Room at The Dorchester - Cellar - The Dorchester in London, United Kingdom

DLK 462

DLK/DLKT 612 with ESM (Energy Saving Motors), wall version, with special drip tray

The famous chef's private dining room, originally opened in the 1940s, has been transformed into a magic gem of contemporary glass and red leather. Menus are personally prepared by Executive Chef Henry Brosi, who is on hand to discuss the philosophy and preparation of the meal.